Total enrollment in 2008 for baccalaureate programs for RN licensure is 968 students. There were 318 new students, 7 transfer students, and 643 continuing students. Total enrollment for baccalaureate programs is 50.1%, the same as 2007, following a 9.3% decrease from 2006.

Enrollment in associate degree programs for RN licensure was 731 students, a five percent increase from 2007. Of the 731 students, 378 were beginning students, and 353 continuing students.

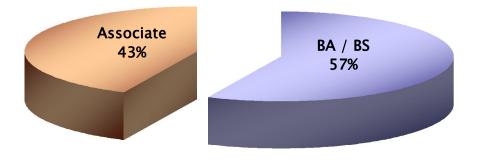

Programs for preparation of Licensed Practical Nurses (LPN) enrolled 233 students, including 224 new students and nine continuing students, a 28.7% increase in students from 2007.

Total enrollment in all three types of nursing education programs increased 4.7% in 2008, following a 6% decrease in 2007. Enrollment has increased 86% over the past ten years, with a steady increase beginning in 2002 when the state legislature authorized increased funding to public schools for nursing education programs.

South Dakota baccalaureate and associate RN programs received a total of 1474 student applications in 2008, of which 862 (58.4 %) were accepted, representing a 6% increase for both applicants and student enrollment compared with the numbers in 2007.

Baccalaureate programs received 746 applications for spring and fall semesters in 2008. Of those, 111 did not meet qualifications for enrollment, while 113 qualified for enrollment but were not admitted due to lack of available space in public universities. Of 635 qualified students accepted, 33 later declined admission and six dropped prior to beginning the program. Overall in 2008, 483 (64.7%) of the applicants were accepted and enrolled. RN upward mobility programs were not included in enrollment capacity numbers as these students hold RN licenses. Baccalaureate nursing programs had an increase of 20 (1%) students enrolled in 2008 with a total of 968 students enrolled.

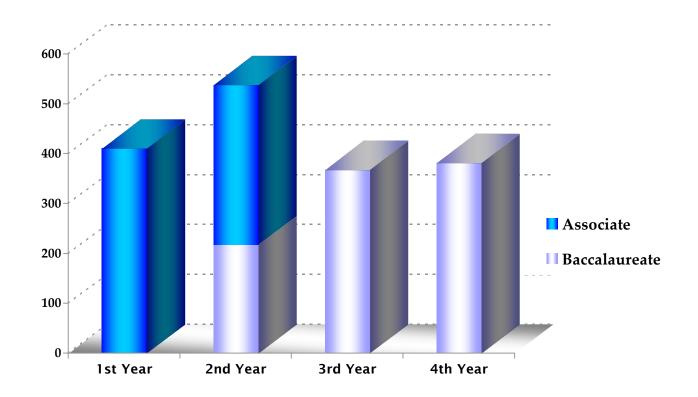

Associate degree programs received 728 (9% increase from 2007) applications, of which 141 were not accepted. Fifty-one were accepted but declined; 147 (20%) were qualified but not admitted due to lack of space; ten dropped prior to beginning the nursing program. Overall, 379 (52%) applicants were accepted and enrolled in an associate degree nursing program. Associate degree programs had an increase of 49 (14.8%) enrolled or 1699 full and part time students over the previous year.

Capacity in South Dakota's five PN programs totals 285 students; in 2008, 849 applications were received. Of those, 485 (57%) were not accepted based on qualification criteria, 23 applicants were qualified but not accepted due to lack of program space, 87 were accepted but later declined, and 12 were accepted but dropped prior to beginning the program. Overall, 242 (28.5%) applicants were accepted and enrolled in 2008 with 233 students enrolled. The report indicates an almost 70% increase in applications from 2007.

Baccalaureate nursing programs reported employing 177 faculty members. Of those, 40.1% were employed full-time and almost 60% part-time. The highest nursing degree held by the majority of faculty were masters and baccalaureate degrees in nursing. Both degrees had 71 (41.3%) prepared faculty, while 30 (17%) faculty hold a doctoral degree in nursing. The remaining 2.3% of faculty hold associate degrees.

Associate degree nursing programs reported employing 76 faculty members, 73.6% of them full-time, a decrease of 15% from 2007. Part-time faculty was at 26.3%, a 14.5% increase from the previous year. Of those, two faculty hold doctorals (2.6%), 47 (64.4%) hold a masters degree in nursing, while 22 (30.1%) hold a baccalaureate degree in nursing, compared to 14 a year ago, or a 36.3% increase from 2007.

PN programs reported employing 42 faculty members, 22 (52.3%) full-time, 20 (47.6%) part-time. Of those faculty, six (15%) hold a masters degree in nursing, 18 (45%) hold a baccalaureate degree in nursing, while 13 (32.5%) hold an associate degree in nursing. The number of associate degreed nurses serving as faculty in PN programs has doubled since a year ago. In addition, for the remaining 4%, one faculty holds a non-nursing masters, and two hold associate degrees.
